Aims of Module

To provide the student with the ability to apply analytical, conceptual and expressive skills to the theory, context and practice of Contemporary Art; and to identify their personal direction and select and apply materials, processes and technologies most appropriate to it. To facilitate the production of resolved work that can be exhibited and disseminated more widely through a range of artists' strategies.

Learning Outcomes for Module

On completion of this module, students are expected to be able to:

- 1 Formulate appropriate research methods as determined by a personal developing studio practice relevant to the context of Contemporary Art.
- 2 Demonstrate the ability to engage with increasing independence in the critical, conceptual and imaginative generation, exploration and development of a range of related ideas.
- 3 Demonstrate increasing technical expertise and working-knowledge of preferred materials, processes and media as determined by developing personal ideas and intentions.
- 4 Demonstrate increasing autonomy, participation and commitment to sustained independent practice through the production of a range of increasingly resolved artworks to a professional standard for exhibition.
- 5 Demonstrate a developing personal artistic vision through the production of artworks and an understanding of the appropriate public output options for those artworks.

Indicative Module Content

This module centres on developing students' independence through a sustained period of self-directed study. The module provides the framework for the student to identify and develop the processes and methods appropriate to their personal direction and introduces more complex issues of audience, theme, methodology, authorship, originality, editioning, context, documentation etc. The module also requires the student to conduct focused research into materials, ideas, philosophies and issues around contemporary creative visual practice to inform and support their individual direction within CAP. In this module students continue to concentrate on developing a coherent, independent practice, which interrogates their chosen theme and subject in greater depth in order to consolidate and underpin their knowledge, skills and practice. This module provides a practical and intellectual basis for progression into the final Honours year. The development of artworks within this studio module informs and is, in return, informed by the Critical and Contextual Studies programme. Completed project work should evidence an awareness and consideration of sustainable themes in a manner appropriate to the context of the discipline. The culmination of this module will require students to organize their own exhibition, publication or broadcast.

Module Delivery

The module is delivered through studio and workshop projects, complemented by lectures, seminars, demonstrations and supporting materials on Campus Moodle. There is both individual and group tutorial support. Peer interaction is facilitated informally within the studio environment and formally through scheduled studio critiques. Optional study trips to local and national venues are available. Students are expected to be proactive in visiting relevant exhibitions and events relative to individual interests and concerns.
