Learning Outcomes for Module

- Identify and describe a range of key ideas, periods, sites, buildings and designs in the evolution of Western Architecture and Landscape design up to Art Nouveau.
- Evaluate the significance of a range of key ideas, periods, sites, buildings and designs in the evolution of Western Architecture and Landscape design up to Art Nouveau in relation to their cultural context.
- Describe in written academic format a chosen topic relating to the evolution of Western Architecture and Landscape design up to and including the Art Nouveau period.

Indicative Module Content

The module presents a historical survey of the main features of the various stages of architectural and landscape design production within the stream of Western Architecture from pre-classical Antiquity up to Art Nouveau, with detailed examination of key and representative examples. Architectural History is understood as a narrative into which several different strands are woven. The lecture course, therefore, introduces aspects of technology & construction techniques, stylistic traits and artistic background, functional aspects, cultural dimensions, social structures and relations, theory, etc., as and when relevant to the student's understanding of the 'story'. A number of particular buildings and projects, such as the Parthenon, the Pantheon, the Tempietto of San Pietro in Montorio, etc., are studied which reflect or condense the relationship between their socio-cultural context and spatial and technological types. Relationships are drawn between broader artistic ideas and their influence on architecture. For example, the relationship between classical sculpture and architecture is discussed in relation to the design of the Parthenon; etc. The module emphasizes writing, drawing, and oral presentation to a lesser degree, as tools useful in understanding and describing the subject studied.
