Aims of Module

To develop a critical appreciation of the wider trends and events which influence the tourism, hospitality and events industry and how the industry responds to such trends and events.

Learning Outcomes for Module

On completion of this module, students are expected to be able to:

- 1 Critically discuss the concepts of future studies and future forecasting in relation to the tourism, hospitality and events industry, utilising relevant future studies models.
- 2 Critically discuss the impact of a range of trends and events upon the tourism, hospitality and events sector
- 3 Critically review how key stakeholders and organisations within the global tourism, hospitality and events industry respond to trends and events which impact on the wider industry
- 4 Develop a critical case study of a chosen tourism, hospitality or events market, product, concept or destination; highlighting potential future scenarios for the sector.

Indicative Module Content

Future Studies Models; Social Trends; Environmental Trends, Economic Trends; Political Trends; Economic Trends; Emerging Global Issues; Scenario Planning. Students will engage with UNESCO's Education for Sustainable Development Anticipatory, Collaboration, Critical Thinking and Systems Thinking, competencies as they understand and evaluate multiple futures, understand the perspectives of others, reflect on their own values and perceptions and deal with uncertainty. By taking a holistic, broad overview of wider trends, the module will provide opportunity to discuss content linked to all of the UNSDGs.

Module Delivery

Lectures introduce the core topics each week. Tutorials will enable students to deepen their understanding of core issues whilst directed readings and additional online content will enable students to develop an individual understanding of specific topics.
